

Matthew Barnard

Hi, I'm a graphic designer based in the UK looking to take the next step in my career as a designer. I have worked with and managed the designs of many clients, from startups to international brands. Creating digital ordering systems, user interfaces, and website designs/assets as well as branding for new projects, services, and companies by managing short deadlines and client briefs along the way.

My work has become refined and adaptable over the years as my roles have changed and developed, allowing me to quickly change work to meet clients' specifications, changing deadlines, or new design trends. I want to move into a more creative role, looking to learn new skills and add to my growing portfolio.
